NEW LICENSE TAGS FOR AUTOS MAY NOW BE OBTAINED

New license tags for automobiles of Bell county, have arrived at the office of Henry Broughton, county clerk, and may be obtained beginning Saturday, Dec. 2. The background of the new tag is battleship gray, with Kentucky, 1923, and the license number printed in a beautiful Kentucky blue.

The license numbers for Bell county begin with 7051, which number Jack Bradley sports at present and he has made request for the first Bell county license again this year, and Floyd Broughton, deputy clerk, has notified him that it is ready. The Bell numbers run continuously up to 7800, after which they jump way up to the numbers of five and six figures.

And unless you drive a Ford, it will cost you a little more to buy the license this year. The license cost for 1923 is based on both the weight and horsepower of the car, the cost being 40 cents a hundred pounds and 25 cents per horsepower. This scale lowers the license cost for Ford, Mr. Broughton said, and raises the cost of all other cars.

About 1100 passenger cars and 300 trucks will have to take out the new license.—Pineville Sun.

MINERS INJURED WHEN SHOTGUN ACCIDENTALLY DISCHARGE

Thomas Blackburn and Hayden Bass, miners employed at the Edgewood mines, were painfully injured near there Thursday when the shotgun of the former was accidentally discharged.

According to the best information obtainable, Blackburn put his gun over a fence and it was accidentally discharged. His right forefinger was shot off with the charge of bird-shot. Bass, who was standing nearby received some of the shot in his right arm and in the right side of his face.

Both received medical aid soon after and neither was seriously hurt.

STATE ACCEPTS TWO HIGHWAY PROJECTS

Barbourville-Pineville And Middlesboro-Manring Road Finally Taken Up.

Pineville, Dec. 2.—Two Bell county road projects have been accepted within the last week by the state highway department, and with winter coming on the local office of Steve Watkins, division engineer, is busy preparing for big summer doings in road affairs.

The BarbourvillePineville grade and drainage project, in the hands of Davis and Graham, contractors, for the past two years, was accepted by the department Saturday, after Mr. Watkins had made a final inspection, and the final reports and estimates were forwarded to Frankfort Tuesday. The other project accepted was the Middlesboro-Manring road to Bosworth on the Tennessee line. The two roads represented an outlay of approximately $285,000 of which $205,000 were spent on the Barbourville road and $80,000 on the Manring road.

Contract for surfacing the Barbourville road, 11 3 miles, with concrete base and asphalt top, already has been let to Metzel, O'Hearne, Vastine and Company, of Covington, and Mr. Metzel was in Pineville this week making arrangements with the railroad for a new spur track on which to deliver material for the surface job. The cost of the surfacing job, as per contract, is $238,000, making a total cost of approximately $550,000 for the 11 miles of road when completed.

The Manring road, 2 1-2 miles, is of bituminous penetration macadam type, costing completed approximately $80.000.

L. L. Pearsall, chief location engineer of the state commission, was in Pineville Tuesday night and Wednesday in conference with Mr. Watkins regarding the engineering work on the Barbourville-Corbin road, now under way, and gives promises of getting this grading and drainage job under way by spring.

Refutes the Theory of A. B. See

THANKSGIVING GIFT FROM CHURCH $155.23

The sum of $155 23 with more to come in, was the amount of the offering Grace Nettleton home, given by the First Presbyterian church, at the Thanksgiving service, Wednesday evening.

With tears in her eyes and entirely overcome by the generous offering, Miss Jackson, matron of the home received thethe check from two women visiting Thursday morning.

"We are one hundred dollars behind at the bank, with not a cent on hand," Miss Jackson told the ladies, "and this offering from your people will tide us over some very hard places for the present," she continued.

There are fifty children there at present; ten more than at this time last year, and with several hundred dollars less coming in, owing to the death of a generous contributor, it means that more money must come in immediately. There is no more worthy charity than this, and it is hoped, Dr. Gray told the News this morning, that those who were not at the meeting and who wish to contribute, wil send checks to Don K. Price, and a check will be sent atonce to the home.

CHRISTMAS CLUB CHECKS ARE FROM 1 CENT TO $400

The Citizens Bank and Trust Co. has nearly twice as large a Christmas Club this year as ever before. Checks to the total value of $15,000 were mailed out today noon to between 900 and 1000 members. The checks range in value from one cent to $400.

The one cent checks go to children who put in a penny last December and promptly forgot the deposit. The $400 check goes to a young Middlesboro man who is working on a salary. The second largest check, $275, goes to a colored washerwoman.

Miss Bessie Edwards of the Citizens Bank, who has this work in charge, says many merchants are expressing appreciation for these Christmas Clubs as it enables people to have more money on hand at this time. Members for the new club may be admitted at any time now. The regular date set for the start of the 1923 Christmas Club is December 11.

GILLIS CARTER STILL ALIVE, MASON WHO SHOT HIM IN JAIL

Gillis Carter, 43, who was probably fatally shot Thursday night by his brother-in-law, Lee Thomas Mason, at the latter's home, is still alive, but doctors hold out no hopes for his recovery. He received one shot in the side of his head, another in the neck, coming out the back near his waist line, and another in the right arm, entering this side.

Mason gave himself up and is being held at the county jail. Sheriff Martin Green said today that Carter went to Mason's house at 11 o'clock at night and demanded liquor. Frank Fuston went with him but Mrs. Mason is the only eye-witness to the shooting.

Sergeant M. B. Becker, who has been in the city since Tuesday in the interest of recruiting for the army, has secure three applications. These are: Joe S. Wolf, Kaylor, Va., and Wallace and Oscar Heasley of Cubag. These will be first sent to Fort Thomas and later to the Mexican border.

Sergeant Becker will go to Harlan within a few days where he will do recruiting work for a week after which he will return to Middlesboro.

The sergeant was pleasantly surprised to meet up with his old friend, W. N. Krieinger of this city, who had the distinction of being the first California volunteer. The two had met in the Philippines and become fast friends.

J. MAPLES, LOCAL BASEBALL STAR, TO SIGN WITH LEAGUE

Frank Maples, local baseball star, has attracted the attention of baseball club and leagues of some of the larger cities and will, in all probability, sign up with one of them next week. As the Lookout club of Chattanooga has made the most attractive offer it is very likely that he will join that organization.

Mr. Maples has recently been with the Harlan, Blue Grass and other leagues, where he has made good as an outfielder. His hundreds of friends in Middlesboro wish him unlimited success in the sport which he has chosen for his profession.

COUNTY TRUANT OFFICER DOING EFFECTIVE WORK

H. B. Bailey of Pineville, truant officer for rural schools of Bell county, is in the city today. Next week he will begin an investigation of the schools around Middlesboro and parents whose children have not been attending school will be summoned before a magistrate and fined if found guilty.

Mr. Bailey has been doing very effective work in other parts of the county, and in many cases has been instrumental in bringing many recalcitrants into the schools.

The state law provides that all children under the age of 14 who are not mentally or physically unable to attend school or who have not received a working permit from the county superintendent must attend school regularly. Failure of parents to comply with this law will result in a fine, the minimum of which is $5.

ABANDONMENT OF GREAT LAKES STATION PROPOSED

By Associated Press

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Construction of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, abandonment of which has been proposed and a movement against which has been launched, required six years, includes a nearly completed harbor and represents, it is said, an investment of approximately $10,000,000. It is located 32 miles north of Chicago on Lake Michigan and has been in operation since July 1, 1911.

At one period in the world war, it accommodated approximately 42,000 men and became known as the world's greatest inland naval training station. It served as one of the navy's most extensive training schools for officers and men in every branch of naval science, and, officers declare, to have at various times one or more recruits from virtually every community in the United States.

Less than 500 men now are stationed at the ecite, most of whom are in specialty schools giving instruction in radio operation and aviation mechanics Maintenance cost now is given at $300,000. General recruit training has been discontinued.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL FALLS SHORT

Woman's Club Turns in $335, About Third of Amount Expected—Total Not Yet Known.

The Woman's Club turned $335 to the Red Cross as the Roll Call membership drive for Middlesboro this year. About $100 of this amount was subscriptions.

This falls short of the amount expected by both the Woman's Club and the Red Cross. W. S. Anderson, chairman of the local chapter of the Red Cross, said a few days ago the roll call should amount to something around $1000 if the work of the local chapter is to be carried on in this district.

Mrs. D. G. Hinks, president of the Woman's Club, said today that she thought $500 would have been the correct amount for Middlesboro to have subscribed for membership but under the circumstances she thought the town had done quite well.

"People just haven't the money," she says. "They say they cannot afford to spare the membership fee this year. In one district around the tannery not one membership was subscribed And the people in this district are the ones that really receive the most benefit from the Red Cross work," she says.

The nearness to the Christmas holidays was given as another reason for the lack of interest in subscribing. But it was also pointed out that the membership drive of this year equaled that of last year. During the war it was nearly 1000.

Mrs. Hinks says that Middlesboro has done extraordinarily well considering the work in other places. "Everywhere," she says, "the towns are forgetting to carry on a peace program. They forget that the Red Cross has even a greater work to do now following the war than during the war."

A THOUGHT

Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.—Revelation 2:10.

Men are enlisted for the labor that kills: let them be enlisted for the labor that feeds; and let the captains of the latter be held as much gentlemen as the captains of the former.—John Ruskin.

THE USE OF WORDS

Words, as the vehicle of our expressions, are the most tangible of all the qualities that we acquire. With them we are enabled to voice the highest emotions and deepest passions, the most fanciful picture and the most glorious music, if we but learn their mastery.

The highest of all arts, poetry, is but an arrangement of words. What noble forms such arrangements may take, though, are unconfined. The immortal lines of Homer, brought down across the years, the inspiring verse of Dante, the divine words of Milton, and the wisdom of Shakespeare before which the world bows, are but words.

With words a poet can paint a picture, vivid and clear and shining, of such enduring qualities that neither time nor the elements can ever efface its color. With words, too, a Shelley or Lanier can express a music of such sweetness and depth that its tones resound throughout the ages.

Not every one is a poet, and not every one is an orator. But the ability is given to every one to learn appreciation of these qualities in others, and to study words, written and spoken, so that they may express all that is in their power, to him.

WHO PAYS FOR THE BLUNDERS?

The world over, the short workday was almost the common man's sole gain from the war the common man fought. And now the counterattack is on. Stinnes, the German ironmaster, leads the drive to cut down the leisure of workers. He says that the 8-hour day is holding back Germany's recovery. In America the National Industrial Conference Board quotes Stinnes, and calls attention to numerous efforts for "repeal or mitigation of the legislation which is very widely felt to have a seriously hampering effect on industrial efficiency." In every country there are plenty of people who care more for industrial efficiency than for human welfare.

The idea that labor must create enough surplus wealth not only to pay for the war, but also to offset the blunders of politicians, simply will not wash. Germany lags in paying up, not because Germans work only eight hours but also because her debts were dictated in hate and economic ignorance, because European boundaries were drawn and European tariff walls raised without due reference to the facts of trade; and, finally, because the late Allies have not been able to agree upon a program. Until the politicians play fair, until work gets a chance to make itself felt, who shall have the right to bring labor to the bar and say: "Pay—pay in more work and less leisure for the blunders of your betters."—Collier's.

FOILED AGAIN

The Loyal Order of Americans, organization trying to counteract the Ku Klux Klan, grows rapidly. Quite naturally, by the law of cause and effect.

Every action has an equal and contrary reaction.

And an organization for always brings into existence an organization against. Just a question of time until they cancel each other.

It is possible that the Loyal Order of Americans will become more powerful than the Ku Klux Klan. Maybe it will blot the klan out of existence. Then would come a third organization, to counteract the Loyal Order of Americans.

Nature has a shrewd way of keeping everything balanced, in the long run. The hot summer evaporates water from the ocean. The vapor drifts inland, condenses, falls as rain, forms rivulets, runs into creeks, on into rivers—and back to the sea.

The balance restored the process starts all over again.

You see this law working in the activities of people. A society-against always rises to oppose the society for. A political party comes into power with opposition crushed, the field to itself. But things soon change. Opposition sprouts up, grows until it wrests control from the old leaders. Democrats and Republicans follow each other in an eternal cycle, though the names of the parties change as the centuries slip by.

Nature loves a certain normal. She insists on it. Whenever humanity gets either above or below that normal, nature starts evening things up. Restoring balance, equilibrium.

The cycle of destruction and restoration of balance is what keeps men collectively, busy from cradle to grave.

This natural law seems harsh to the visionaries. It seems equally as harsh to the conservatives. The visionaries correspond to the water evaporating from the ocean. The conservatives are like the rain rushing the vapor back to its source, the sea.

The Law of Balance works inexorably in all human lives. When you get too happy and contented, move cautiously, for the chances are that you are riding for a fall. And when you are down in the mouth and everything goes wrong, keep heart, for nature soon will restore the balance and bring happiness, the reaction from misery.

The sharpest razor dulls itself in shaving, and has to be sharpened again. Such is life.

Drivers.

Reckless driving is UNLAWFUL. It includes:

1. Driving any vehicle when not legally qualified to do so, or when intoxicated, or when for any other reason incompetent to drive properly.

2. Driving any vehicle when it is not properly controlled, especially at crossings.

3. Failing to exercise care in crossing or entering the traffic of another roadway. It is obligatory not to interrupt traffic in the more important thoroughfare unnecessarily.

4. Driving an automobile or motorcycle across a safety zone.

5. Exceeding a reasonable and safe speed rate under existing conditions, or the speed rate established by law.

6. Violating any regulations so as to cause danger; failing to take every reasonable precaution for safety, or failing to obey any order of a traffic officer or traffic sign, signal light or limit line.

THE SALVATION ARMY

By E. I. Arnold

They have heeded the cry of the suffering world,
And hastened relief to bear;
They have stooped to the souls in lowest depths,
And brought them from dark despair.

They considered no sacrifice too dear,
Nor counted their time at all,
For an Army officer's day is long,
And his nights at duty's call.

They have visited hospital, jail and slum,
All eager to serve and save,
And wherever the need was greatest there
Were these warriors true and brave.

They have dried the desolate widow's tears,
And given the orphans care;
They have comforted sorrowing parent-hearts,
And led them to God in prayer.

They have gone to the man that was down-low down—
And lifted him to his feet;
They have made him a citizen worth the name,
And one we are proud to greet.

For down with the wrong and up with the right
Is their daily working plan,
And upholding the flag of the Stars and Stripes
They are loyal to a man.

So we'll cheer the bonnet and tambourine,
And the man with the big bass drum
And we'll dig down deep and endeavor to keep
The Army "till Kingdom come."

THE JAZZ BABY

By Berton Braley

There was a time when babies were gently sung to sleep
By soft and tender lullabies that brought them slumber deep,
They drifted on to Sleepyland in drowsy happy bliss,
While mother crooned a little song, a lullaby like this:

"Rocky-a-Bye, baby, on the tree top,
When the wind blows the cradle will rock,
When the bough breaks the cradle will fall,
And down will come baby, cradle and all."

But now it is the age of jazz and even babes in arms
Are devotees of music that has syncopatic charms,
And when the infant's bedtime comes, the modern mother gaily
Accompanies her lullabies upon the ukulele.
For syncopated rhythm is a universal passion,
And so the baby's lullaby runs something in this fashion:

"Rock—rock—rock-a-bye baby,
Mother will buy you a saxophone, maybe;
Hear the winds a-blowin',
Sets your shoulders goin',
Baby's up a tree, up a tree, up a tree,
Wingin' to the breezes in a minor key,
Oh my,
Don't cry,
Hear the jazzy music of my lullaby,
When the bough is breakin'
Cradle starts to shakin'
Shakin' like the dancers at a barbers' ball.
Toot on the saxophone, bang on the drums,
Jazz 'em up, jazz 'em up—here the baby comes;
Down on the ground you can see him fall,
Baby an' the cradle,
Baby an' the cradle,
Baby an' the cradle an' all!"

Deep Water

BY ZOE BECKLEY

Barrett flung away from Myra Deane's shuttered house in savage revolt against the world. He had been for a long time in a state of nerves, in which it seemed every element in his life was hostile. His business, his home, his social life seemed all askew. Responsibilities weighed upon him, the thing he used most to love, palled—work, his office, reading, motoring, golf. Everything either bored or jangled. Only Myra had stood out as a refuge of peace and sympathy.

Now that she, too, had turned from him, he was glad in a way. He owed no one any consideration. His last doubts were resolved. He would get out of this maddening monotony of respectable suffering, this hideous death in life.

Telephoning from a drug store, he gave orders to the club steward to have his bags sent to the Zeeland at once. He would spend the night on board. It made him feel more severed from unpleasant things.

He walked out of the store and looked for a cab. A black and white one was just drawing to the curb with a girl in it that reminded him of Alice: a boy who looked like John.

A pang went through him as he realized on second glance that they bore little resemblance to his children.

"Nerves must be going to pot," he told himself. "I'm imagining things."

He didn't take the black-and-white cab, but stood there, a sort of pull upon his mind detaining him. Something made him go back into the drug store, lift the receiver and call his home. He'd just tell Junior that he was off in the morning on the Zeeland—and if he had any last minute thing to say he could reach him up to sailing time.

His heart sang unaccountably at Junior's lifeless voice saying:

"All right, father, is there is anything. But what is there to say? If Alice wasn't able to make you see—that is—I don't know—Oh, I don't know what—" He trailed off incoherently.

"Well, I don't suppose there is anything more—Goodby." He waited a moment, hoping the boy would say, "Wait a minute, father." But there was silence. He heard the click of the cut-off.

He went out, bought a few toilet articles for which he preferred not to send to his home, and went on board the Zeeland. Hurrying to his cabin he locked the door, lay down upon the bed and gave up to bitter rumination. Hours passed. He fell into a deaden sleep. A steward looked in in the morning. "Breakfast, sir!" And Barrett heard the swish of waves against a moving boat.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

Torty stuck out one foot at a time for Nancy to rub the oil in.

THE RACE

The next letter the Green Wizard received was from Torty Turtle. He read it aloud to Nancy and Nick in his workroom up in the tree tops while the Twins were helping him.

"Dear Mr. Green Wizard," he read, "Will you please help me to win a race? I'm going to run one with Cutie Cottontail because Cutie said that old story of the Tortoise and the Hare wasn't true, and he could beat me to the post and back before I got started. I told him he couldn't but I am not so sure. Could you send me a little magic to help along?

"Yours in hopes,
"TORTY TURTLE."

"Oh!" cried Nancy, clapping her hand. "Are you going to help him, Mr. Wizard?"

"I'm not sure," answered he slowly. "It doesn't seem fair, but at the same time Cutie should be cured of his boasting. Yes, I think I'll send Torty a little magical oil to rub on his feet. Just this once."

He gave them a bottle and off went the Twins to Torty's house by the side of Ripple Creek. Torty stuck out one foot at a time for Nancy to rub the oil in.

When Twelve Toes, the Sorceror, heard about it he was more jealous than ever. "I tell you what we'll do," he said to Light Fingers. "You dig a ditch just where Torty will fall into it and cover it with leaves. If he lands on his back all the magic in Fairyland won't do him any good after that."

So Light Fingers dug a pit when no one was looking and fixed it so you'd never know it was there.

By and bye all the people gathered around and the race started.

Suddenly there was a crash and a crackle and something went into the pit kerr-flop! But it wasn't Torty Turtle. It was Cutie Cottontail, and by the time he had scrambled out Torty had reached the post and won the race.

1-2 pound flour
6 eggs
3 pounds raisins (seeded)
1 pound citron
1 1-2 pounds currants
1 pound candied apricots

THIRD ISSUE LIBERTY BONDS BEST FORM OF INVESTMENT

Liberty bonds of the third issue are at present the best form of investment, according to local bank officials. These are now selling a little below par while the Victory issue of bonds is selling at par It is the belief of financial experts that those of the third issue will soon rise to par, thus making a neat profit for those who invest now

It is said that there are very few, if any, local bond holders who have failed to clip the interest coupons as they became due, while in many of the larger cities thousands of dollars are lost or tied up in this manner.

SCHOOLS OBSERVE EDUCATION WEEK

Supt. Bradner Asks Children Be Instructed In Patriotism And Citizenship.

The following announcement has been sent by Supt. J. W. Bradner to each of the public school teachers:

December 3 to 9, inclusive, is being celebration nation-wide as "Education week." There are a few things which I should like to have our teachers do in observance of this week.

1. I desire every child in the school system to learn the Pledge of Allegiance and Salute of the flag, which is recognized as the official Pledge in Public Schools throughout the Nation. This Pledge and Salute should be given at least once a week throughout the school year.

2. Each child should commit to memory the American's Creed, which you will recall was written by William Tyler Page, and officially adopted by Congress April 13, 1918. This Creed should be recited at least once each week by every pupil.

3. Sing America at least once each week, all four verses. Watch that it is sung properly.

4. Each grade from the second, to Sing the Star Spangled Banner at least once each week. It is not necessary that all four be given on the same day. Use your discretion.

The Pledge.

"I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

The American's Creed

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed, a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity, for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all its enemies."

KENTUCKY SCHOOLS JOIN EDUCATION WEEK OBSERVANCE

By Associated Press

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 2.—Kentucky will join with the nation in the observance of Education Week which begins tomorrow and continues through December 9, according to George Colvin, state superintendent of public instruction. The week will be known as American Education Week and public school children throughout the country will take part in various entertainments.

The slogan of the week in this state, according to Mr. Colvin, will be, "A greater and better Kentucky, educationally." Ministers of the state have been asked to call attention to the week in their sermons tomorrow. "How can the observance of the week be begun in a better way than by the united prayer of the people for guidance in the education of our children," Mr. Colvin stated in a letter he sent to the ministers of Kentucky.

"We are in a world crisis. No man can foresee the outcome. We can hope, pray and work, but the solution of many of our greatest problems will be left to our children. The kind and amount of education we shall give to them will help or hinder. God grant that they may have the knowledge, the understanding, the courage and the conscience acquit themselves like men."

LIVE LOCAL LINES FROM LYNCH

LYNCH TO REACH OUTSIDE WORLD BY PAVED HIGHWAY

Brick Road Contract Let From Lynch To Virginia Line—Connection There To Be Made With Appalachia.

SAVES MUCH TIME TO U. S. STEEL PLANT, GARY

Five or six years ago, the site of Lynch, Ky., was a wilderness when J. D. Jennings lighted there to supervise the construction of what is now the most modern mining city in the world, with a census of 7000 people by the U. S. Census. Up to this time, despite the fact R. J. Bondurant recently drove a Pierce Arrow from Knoxville, to Lynch, though he had to detour 45 miles over mountain roads, it has been worth the price of an automobile to drive it into Lynch from the outside, even from Harlan town, about twenty-five miles away, in the same county.

Now Lynch is to have a paved road practically all the way to Appalachia, Va. The contract for a brick paved highway from Lynch to the Virginia line has just been let to R. B. Hill, of six miles. A connection from this point to a road that leads to Appalachia, Va., on the other side of the mountain, has been surveyed, and its construction is assured.

While this will be of great convenience to anybody interested in going to or from Lynch, it will be of special convenience to the officials of the United States Coal and Coke Co., which built Lynch, and the United Supply Co., which operates the store sat Lynch, both of which companies are subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation.

The headquarters of the U. S. Coal and Coke Co., is at Gary, W. Va., with Col. Edward O'Toole as general manager, and the United Supply Company, of which Claude Boughner is general manager. At present officials from Gary going to Lynch, must come down through Appalachia, on to Middlesboro and Pineville thence to Lynch, traveling probably a 100 miles out of the way and making unpleasant changes, where, when the highway is completed they can get off at Appalachia and drive over the paved highway to Lynch in less than half an hour.

But, this is not all, as a highway from Pineville to Lynch is practically financed, and next Spring will see the work on this begun and pushed to as rapid a completion as possible.

At the present time there is not even a wagon road from Lynch to Appalachia, though there is a mule path over the mountain which many people use, and go on horses and mules and walk.

The road from Lynch to the Virginia line is to be completed in eight months possibly, the Virginia link will be completed in that time so that before the end of next summer, there should be a great celebration in Lynch, and by all people who live there, as well as everybody who has business there. We hope that nothing will delay the completion of the road within thee time specified. The Ky. Highway Department of Kentucky is to be commended for its efforts to give an outlet to the seven thousand citizens of this most modern city of its size in Kentucky and probably more than that additional number in the immediate section, including Benham, Poor Fork and Pee Vee, the road being financed by county, state and Federal funds.—Appalachia Trade-Journal.

HARLAN BOY DIES FROM BURNS CAUSED BY MATCHES

Tom was improving from the burns when pneumonia developed and for the last week there had been little hope for his recovery. He was five years old and is survived by his mother, father and two older brothers. The funeral services and burial was in Williamsburg.

GIRL MOTHER WINS A HOME IN U. S.

Nancy Jordan, 23, Admitted When American Woman Goes Sponsor For Her.

New York, Dec. 2.—A pretty British war mother—one of the hundreds of pitiful by-products of war-time emotional frenzy—today sees her trail of sorrow winding a curve into happiness.

She is Nancy Jordan, 23, English bookkeeper and stenographer.

Nancy is assured she and her fatherless child, detained by Ellis Island immigration authorities, are going to enter the United States.

And she is assured now that both will be given a comfortable home or that she will be given a chance to work to make their livelihood, the one thing she seeks in America.

All this is because Mrs. Van Trump Warren, divorced wife of Frank G. Warren, Kansas City lawyer, is speeding to New York to put up the bond necessary to gain admittance for mother and child.

"I'll admit them," says Assistant Immigration Commissioner Landis, "if someone puts up $500 bond for each to protect us against their becoming public charges."

And thus an Ellis Island drama nears a happy end.

Miss Jordan's Story

"In England I was a bookkeeper and stenographer. The war came. England was filled with soldiers. War lure of the uniform was felt by all girls.

NANCY JORDAN AND HER CHILDCHILD, FRANCIS.

"My baby was born as the result of a romance with an American soldier. I have no apology to offer.

"I met Frank Warren in England. He became interested in me and I started a correspondence with his wife who has since divorced him.

"I and my baby got along with the aid of my mother. When her funds gave out and jobs were difficult to get, I came to America. I wanted only a chance to work. I was going to Kansas City where I knew Mrs. Warren would aid me."

Warren's Story.

My divorce which occurred in 1920 had nothing to do with Miss Jordan or her child," a Kansas City dispatch quotes Frank G. Warren, attorney as saying.

"Mrs. Warren and I now are the best of friends. I am glad to see Miss Jordan and her child admitted to the United States. I want them to have a home with Mrs. Warren."

I cannot understand why the government should have considered barring Miss Warren when such a woman as Mrs. Warren gives assurance of her care."

Mrs. Jordan has vigorously denied inferences that Warren is the father of her child.

HUNTERS BRING BACK GUNS BUT NO GAME

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys were marching. Dressed in khaki, gleaming guns on their shoulders, they were coming in from a hard day on the field.

On their features was the gaunt hungry look caused by the privations, and perhaps the disappointments, of the field from which they were returning. No waving banners greeted them. No pæans of victory heralded their coming.

It was Thanksgiving afternoon and these armed, khaki-clad men were the hunters returning from the fields. No deceased rabbits or birds were in evidence.

Highway Up Wallins Creek About Complete

The Wallins Creek district, with the Wallins Creek station and postoffice on the L. and N. where the spur branches off to go up the creek, is one of the most important and active spots in the Harlan county coal field, and up the creek are the very important operations of Henry Ford, the Banner Fork Coal Company, of the Consumers' Power company, the Kentucky King Coal Co., and the Creech Coal Co., owned by the Creech and Randall interests, the former leaders in the development of the Harlan field, and the latter among the largest concerns in Atlanta. Like other sections, owing to the car shortage on the L. and N., working but a little more than a day a week, and the Ford interests have apparently not benefitted much by buying their own railroad cars, as it takes some time to get them to Detroit and back, and are charged against their mine rating as is railroad owned cars.

The splendid highway, with heavy base and modern surface from the main line of the L and N. up creek do the different mines is about complete, while a contract has been let to surface the pike from Wallins Creek into Harlan, and the entire construction of the highway from Wallins Creek back to Pineville is already financed, the part from Pineville to Paige already being paved.

The recently organized Wallins Creek National Bank is already flourishing and prosperous with more than $100,000 on deposit, and has a handsome new building planned by C. C. and E. A. Weber, of Cincinnati, to be erected in the Spring.

With anything like a normal car supply, the operations of these three big operations mentioned would make Wallins Creek one of the busiest spots in the entire Harlan field, their shipments running over 100 cars daily.

Flirting With Wifey, Or Taking Chances by Mail

By Gene Cohn

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 1.—The dramatic personae of this comedy of home life are:

Dr. J. Franklin Moore, prominent dentist of Oakland.

Mrs. Lillian B. Moore, his wife.

Dr. Harris," Dr. Moore's "non de mash"

Dr. Harris," Dr. Moore's nom de plume."

Reel 1: Mrs. Moore suspects her husband, Dr. Moore, of being a gay Lothario. She prepared a trap. She sits back and waits when—

She sees in the "love column" of a newspaper an advertisement she had no reason to believe was inserted by her husband. It asks for a companion on week-end trips. She rushes a mash note, carefully changing her handwriting, and suggests a meeting She signs the note "Grace Vance."

Oh, That I Had Writer's Cramp—Reel 2: Comes a reply in a familiar handwriting, but bearing the signature Dr. Harris." How about a meeting? Note follows note and Mrs. Moore always deftly arranges some excuse why she cannot meet "Dr. Harris," still seeking to draw him on to a direct admission of his real identity.

"Grace Vance" finally agrees to meet "Dr. Harris" in hotel lobby, but when he can't find her she hurries him note that she was frightened away by seeing old acquaintance, Dr Moore, in the lobby. With this "piece de resistence" of irony "Grace Vance" then draws from "Dr. Harris" an admission that he is married. Oh how could you thus deceive a poor but honest working girl? she wails in a letter.

In Life, as in Tennis, "Love One."

Reel 3: Into her lawyer's office goes Mrs. Moore. "Here are the papers." Dr. Moore is summoned to the court. The trap is sprung. Ye gods, he's been sending mash notes to his own wife!

One by one the damning documents were produced. "I knew it all the time," declares Dr Moore. "She thought she was slipping something over on me and I just led her along."

Fade-out: Mrs. Moore leaves court with decree. Alimony notice later.

LIMIT TIME FOR FEDERAL TRAINING

All Ex-Soldiers Who Want Vocational Education Must Make Application By December 15.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 2.—A warning has been issued to former service men and women throughout the United States by Joe Sparks, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion, that all veterans who desire vocational training and have not made application must do so under the present law before December 16, 1922.

Those who wait until after this date will forfeit their right of receiving this government training. There are several ways in which this application can be made. The claimant may either make application by writing a letter expressing a desire to apply for vocational work in any one of the bureau ofces located throughout the United States. It is necessary for the applicant to sign his name so that the bureau may consider the application as made by the man himself. It is advisable for the applicant to make his application in person at one of the district or sub-distric offices of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, although this is not absolutely necessary.

Forms may be obtained at ony one of the bureau ofgces or from any of the co-operating agencies such as the American Legion, the Red Cross and other veteran organizations. These forms should be filled out, signed and forwarded to one of the veteran bureau offices. If a person is so situated that he is unable to obtain one of these forms, a letter will be accepted as an application.

Where the postmark of such letter or the form shows that it was made on or before December 15, the application will be considered as where the man enters the office before the close of the working day on December 15. Applications mailed later than this date will be too late.

A person who is in doubt as to whether he has a valid application on file should take steps immediately to ascertain his status from one of the offices of the bureau. The government is eager that all former service men who are entitled to the benefits of this act should take advantage eof this opportunity. All applications received will have the fullest consideration and of the facts presented are sufficient to meet the provisions of the Rehabilitation Act, the claimant will be awarded the benefits provided under the act.

NEW COMMISSION STARTS TO WORK

Efficiency Body To Investigate All State Departments—Cut Out All Useless Offices.

By Associated Press.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec 2—The efficiency Commission created by the 1922 General Assembly was scheduled to meet here yesterday to organize and start work outlined in the act. The members of the commission are John Stroll, Lexington; Calesby Spears, of Paris, J. Guthrie Coke, Logan county, and Gabe Wharton, Springfield.

After many lengthy caucuses at the last legislature, the efficiency commission idea, advanced by Henry Lawrence democrat, representative efrom Trigg county, prevailed and members of both parties united in favor of the measure An appropriation of $25,000 was voted for the use of the commission. The members of the commission, according to the act, were to investigate thoroughly all departments and institutions in the state with a view to consolidating and cutting out useless offices.

Governor Morrow appointed a commission in accordance with the act but many of the appointees declined to serve. The commissioners will receive no salary for their work but will be allowed necessary expenses. According to Mr. Lawrence, framer of the bill, the expenses of the work should not reach $25.000 but that amount was set aside so that the commissioners would not feel hampered in their work.

The duties of the commission, according to the act, are to study the work of each department in the state government and recommend any changes for increasing the efficiency of the department. If several offices in one department can be consolidated or if one or more departments can be consolidated the commission is expected to make this recommendation, according to the framer of the act.

State institutions are to be investigated and every branch of the government probably will be looked into, according to Mr. Lawrence. The recommendations of the commission are to be submitted to the governor and he either will call an extra session of the General Assembly or present the findings of the commission to the next regular session, according to the provisions of the act.

DEBASED CURRENCY USELESS IN TEACHING ARITHMETIC

By Associated Press.

Vienna, Dec. 1.—A curious effect of the debased Austrian currency is disclosed in the necessity of revising the system of instruction in decimal numbers in the schools.

As in all other countries, the simplest method for such instruction used to be in terms of money, appealing directly and understandingly to the child mind. Thus it was easy to formulate lessons to the effect that one heller represented one hundredth of a crown, and so on.

Now one heller represents a variable sum; with no comparative stability, and the school authorities are trying to find another basis or symbol for primary instruction.

Furthermore, children today never hear of hellers except in school. The lowest purchasing unit is 100 crowns, and it takes three such units to buy a box of matches

FASHION HAS AGAIN RAIDED THE BARNYARD

By Associated Press.

Paris, Dec. 1.—Fashion, in her ever insistent search for novelty, again has invaded the barnyard. Rooster feathers have come back. They are the latest thing on smart Paris hats, and even on evening gowns. All colors are used, and when the rooster can't supply the shade, the dyer does. However, natural white and black are the most popular colors.

Rooster feathers probably are about as cheap a material as can be found, but their use on chic hats has not lowered the price of bonnets. One little hat shop is displaying these "simple but smart" things at 750 francs, while other stores ask 500 and 600 francs.

Book Holder

A book holder of huckaback or some other serviceable material makes a novel yet inexpensive gift for the feminine commuter who likes to read on the train. It has handles which slip easily over the arm and it may be more or less embroidered.

Seattle college girl demanding the right to wear running trunks has the right and left also.

What this country needs is shoe strings that last as long as the shoes

Too Much Meat Hurts Kidneys

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up, and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure any one; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

WOMANLY TROUBLES

'Twas Hard for Her to Stop Work, But This Texas Lady Says She Had to Go to Bed.—Helped by Cardui.

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Ira Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place. "I would, for a day or two, feel drowsy, stupid and lifeless; didn't feel like doing my work.

"I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and very severe headaches.

"I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed. I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering. The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second. It did so much good for me, I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, and try this mild, harmless tonic.
